New Initiative Updates:

In effort to increase communication across the district, the college will be creating a “Cochise News Stand,” an electronic newsletter that will be posted on the website; holding monthly meetings and academic forums with department chairs and staff; and distributing monthly newsletters produced by the office of Student Success, which reports efforts to increase student success. Copies of the first two newsletters were given to Board members.

The Police Academy is scheduled to begin September 4, 2018, on the Douglas Campus. The Arizona Peace Officer Standards and Training Board (AZPOST) has approved the Bisbee Douglas International Airport to be the approved driving range; the firearms training has been approved at the Cochise County Sheriff’s Office; and they will be on the Douglas Campus August 16 to review classrooms and where the obstacle course will be installed. The college is proud of the partnerships with the Sheriff’s office along with the multiple municipalities.

Residential Construction Trades Program project house has students enrolled and has begun initial foundation work. A Ribbon Cutting is scheduled for August 30 at 9:00 a.m. and Board members are invited to attend. Participation will include all major partners in the project, some to include City of Sierra Vista, Cochise County, American Southwest Credit Union, and Castle and Cooke.
Dr. Rottweiler introduced Dr. Paul Sebesta who will lead the charge for the AG and Natural Resource initiatives. On August 14, Dr. Sebesta provided a presentation to the Natural Resources Conservation District discussing areas of need for the college to move agriculture and natural resources forward in the county. Frequent reports will be provided to the Board. Dr. Rottweiler stated the college when measured against other colleges, is extremely good, but the college, as a county entity, can do more to help Cochise County succeed on critical metrics.

Convocation was held on August 13 the theme was "It’s About Us," employees had an opportunity to introduce themselves and talk about what they do at the college. The experience was amazing, exciting, and passionate. The event reminded the administration of how many students and lives college staff touch throughout the county.

General Comments:
Dr. Rottweiler hosted Dr. Maria Hesse from Arizona State University (ASU) in a meeting with leaders at Fort Huachuca regarding the ASU transfer program. Board members were given a copy of the new “ASU at Cochise” pamphlet. The ASU program was to start on the Cochise College campus this fall but did not result in enough students to run a face-to-face class this semester. However, they were able to transition students to the online program. A student completing an associate of applied science degree from Cochise College can take up to 90 credits from Cochise at the college’s rates, and only needs 45 credits to complete a bachelor’s of applied science in applied leadership.

Updates:
- July 11 – Dr. Rottweiler attended the State of the City for Douglas
- August 14 – Dr. Rottweiler was a guest of the Mayor at the Spotlight on Sierra Vista Breakfast
- Dr. Rottweiler has been invited to serve on the Huachuca 50 Board of Directors

2.04 Architectural Services for District Master Facilities Planning and Initial Design Work for a Proposed Transportation Center on the Sierra Vista Campus

Per Governing Board Policy – 301, Delegation to the President, requires Board action to contract for architectural services in amounts greater than $50,000. Following the Board’s approval for architectural services for district-wide master facilities planning and initial design work for a proposed Transportation Center, college administration met with members of the Purchasing Department regarding a request for proposal or review other arrangements.

Since October 2005, the college has had a relationship with DLR Group as they played a significant role in the Master Facilities Planning on the Sierra Vista Campus along with many constructions projects, to include the remodel of the Downtown Center. Based on the college’s relationship and DLR's participation in the One Government Procurement Alliance, the college requested DLR to provide a proposal for services. A selection committee met and unanimously agreed to continue the relationship with DLR to provide architectural services and master facilities planning.

The administration requested the Board adopt a motion authorizing the College President to enter into a contract with DLR Group, Inc., for Architectural Consultant services. A copy of the master facilities planning proposal was included in the board packet.

3.02 Executive Dean of Academics Report

Dr. Alan Biel, Executive Dean of Academics, provided a presentation to the Board on the transitioning from Virtual Campus to the Faculty Support Center. Presentation highlights included:

In 1998, similar to other colleges, Virtual Campus was necessary if the online instruction was to be provided at Cochise College, which was not well received by faculty. The virtual campus role was to provide a comprehensive selection of online college classes. By 2017, the world changed; online instruction was commonly accepted throughout higher education, and institutions were integrating online classes with the rest of academics.

Dr. Rottweiler interjected to acknowledge Bill Adkins, George Self, and Tasneem Ashraf for leading an initiative for an online virtual campus at a time when many colleges fought against them.

Beginning fall 2018, Cochise College will also integrate online classes with the rest of academics and will be handled as all other classes are, through department chairs and deans.

Dr. Biel referenced two key points that are often made by Dr. Rottweiler: 1) "impact the numbers" – increase the number of Cochise County residents going on to college or into the workplace. 2) "Knowledgeable to Knowledge-able" – the job of higher education today is no longer providing students with information to memorize, it's teaching them how to find and use the information; it's providing students with the skills to succeed in the workforce.

Making the shift of impacting the numbers is not a matter of just offering new programs or changing the courses taught; it requires a re-imaging of how classes are taught and examining the courses being taught. Dean Mark Boggie is addressing the issue with Guided Pathways and reevaluating how to help students who are not quit college ready.

An initiative to create Master Courses, Master Programs and Master Teachers was introduced earlier in the year with the goal to help faculty incorporate new technologies and methodologies in their classrooms. To aid with the initiative and help faculty develop training manuals for each course, a Faculty Support Center was formed. The Center staff members include Joan Jorgensen, Director of Curriculum Development, Karen Dale, Director of Academic Assessment and Improvement, Renee Rhodenhamel, Learning Management System Administrator (Moodle), Kristy Duggan, Director of Faculty Development, and Angela Jackson, Administrative Assistant. The training manuals will provide multiple ways to teach a course, such as flip-classroom, videos, virtual reality, or even 3-D printing.

Dr. Rottweiler noted that following a meeting with Fort Huachuca Leadership and learning of their educational initiatives, it was evident that college resources needed to be improved. Also noting the majority of the Faculty Support Center is staffed with existing employees from reorganized departments and utilizing the expertise of those individuals.

Dr. Biel shared ways Cochise College can help the community by smoothing the path from high school to both the workplace and higher education for students:

- Providing Certificate Programs
  - Small (16 credit) certificates – minimum for financial aid
  - Can be finished in 1-2 semesters – student cost $1360 rather than current $2040 for three semester certificate programs
  - Provide technical skills - certificates linked to specific jobs with just the technical skills necessary for those jobs
  - Provide soft (essential skills) - communication, problem-solving, working with others, acting professionally; embedded in every course, so each course teaches both technical skills and soft skills
  - Include internships with local business - real-world experience and creates partnerships with the local business community
  - Run in high schools where possible - one course per semester in last four semesters

- Where possible provide a pathway from certificate to associate degree

Dr. Biel provided an example of creating a certificate program that can be taught in 16 credits for a Virtual Reality Technician (VR Tech) supporting virtual classrooms by asking questions such as:

- What do we want students to be able to do when they complete this program?
  - Explain VR technology, software options and educational uses to faculty
  - Set up the VR technology in the classroom
  - Be able to troubleshoot problems efficiently
  - Act and communicate in a professional and responsible manner

Dr. Biel noted the 16-credit programs, which can be completed within one or two semesters, with soft skills embedded within each course, and where possible, an internship with a local business is the certificate program model the college is looking to follow. These programs require minimal investment in time and money on the part of the student, and only eight or nine students to cover the cost of teaching the program. The college can offer several small certificate programs designed to help students make that first venture into the workplace and post-secondary academics.

The Faculty Support Center staff will work with the deans and faculty to develop the curricula for certificate programs that serve the needs of the students; embedding the soft skills into the technical courses and using the criteria set up for master courses and programs. The director of academic assessment and improvement will work to ensure proper assessments. The director of faculty development and the learning management system administrator will work with faculty to implement the new courses in the classroom.
Questions and Comments:
Mr. Nelson asked if any of the 16-credit certificate programs would be ready by the spring semester. Dr. Rottweiler replied the biggest barrier in getting the programs started would be gaining approval from the Department of Education and Federal Government ensuring the college can gain access for financial aid. Dr. Biel assured the Board the college would be working with certificate programs that are eligible for gainful employment and financial aid. Dr. Rottweiler noted courses, when ready for approval, would be presented to them for approval.

Referencing instruction on Fort Huachuca, Mr. Quinn noted the critical element is the analysis; what is the requirement and what is the need. Build the learning objectives, and then enable the learning objectives. Noting also, the instructional designer assesses the best way to teach the course; then the training developers develop the training. Mr. Quinn’s two areas of interest include how the college will determine what certificates are needed; and the need for an unbiased evaluator.

Dr. Rottweiler stated part of the drive for certificates would be generated from advisory committees, which are industry included. The other will be predicting education for jobs that do not yet exist. Some certificate programs will be built as building blocks to a degree then built to transfer, while others will be certificate-only programs.

Barb Richardson, Assistant Dean of Outreach, noted it was a pleasure to host the Board meeting at the Benson Center. A goal for the next year is to increase the awareness of Cochise County resources available in the Benson area, such as the Meals on Wheel program.
